Justin Chapa Bio

Born and raised on Arlington's eastside, Justin attended Arlington ISD schools from Kindergarten through his graduation from Sam Houston High School, as Valedictorian. Justin spent his undergraduate years at Harvard University, where he earned a BA in Government with honors and became the first person in his immediate family to graduate from college.

Determined to ensure that students from similar backgrounds have the same opportunity, he joined Teach for America after college and taught 12th Grade Government and Economics at Rivera High School in Brownsville, Texas. While at Rivera, he sponsored the campus student council, coordinated an afterschool credit-recovery program, started an AP Macroeconomics class, and served as an officer on the Site-Based Decision Making Committee.

While applying for Teach for America as a college senior, Justin also applied to law school. Most law schools allow Teach for America "Corps Members" to defer admission for two years while completing their teaching commitment. Thus, when he went "back to school" after his second year of teaching, he walked through the doors of Stanford Law School rather than Rivera High School. Today, Justin is Of Counsel in the Dallas office of Morgan, Lewis & Bockius LLP, one of the world's largest law firms.

Although Justin is a lawyer by trade, he is a teacher at heart. While in law school, Justin worked in Stanford's "Youth and Education Law Project," a legal clinic that focuses on representing students with disabilities in special-education disputes. He also worked part-time as a Government teacher at Eastside College Preparatory School, in East Palo Alto, California, which primarily serves future first-generation college students. Additionally, Justin joined the first cohort of Stanford's joint-degree program in education and law, earning an MA in Education concurrently with his law degree. As part of the joint-degree program, Justin authored an article on the evolution of the "Government as Educator" paradigm in Supreme Court case law, which was later published in the BYU Education & Law Journal.

After Stanford, Justin and his wife Anna—also a Sam Houston alum and former teacher—moved back to their hometown with their then-nine-month-old son. Two more kids would follow, both girls. Justin's school-age children attend AISD schools, and Justin and Anna are both active in PTA.

Before his Board service, Justin served multiple terms on AISD's Financial Futures Committee and Citizens Bond Oversight Committee. Justin also served on the Capital Needs Steering Committee that helped craft the AISD's 2014 Bond package, and he had the privilege to serve on the Board of Directors of the Arlington ISD Education Foundation, a non-profit that distributes grants to AISD teachers.

Outside of AISD activities, Justin regularly speaks to high school students about college and career issues. Along with a friend from high school, Justin co-founded a scholarship for graduating seniors at Sam Houston HS that has awarded over $30,000 since 2007. Aside from service directly related to the Arlington ISD, Justin currently sits on the Board of Directors for United Way of Tarrant County and previously served on the Boards of Directors of the Arlington Public Library Foundation and of Leadership Arlington, where for three years he helped direct the Youth Leadership Arlington program.
